

DAMAGING TESTIMONY

By W. H. Culton Against the Assassination of Gov. Goebel,

AND OTHER ACCESSORIES.

Other Witnesses Corroborate His Story.

The Courier-Journal of Thursday has the following to say of Culton's testimony:

For three hours yesterday afternoon William H. Culton, testifying in his own behalf in support of a motion for bail, gave the most sensational testimony yet given in the Goebel assassination conspiracy. Many of the statements were dragged from him after the most persistent cross-examination by Col. T. C. Campbell. Culton's testimony convicts Yontsey of being an active leader in the conspiracy; designates James Howard as the man who fired the fatal shot; implicates W. S. Taylor as an accessory both before and after the fact, and also convicts Finley, Caleb Powers and himself. Culton had not finished his testimony when court adjourned for the day. His testimony showed that armed men had been brought to Frankfort, and their expenses were paid by Taylor and others; that an officer was carried by him from Taylor to the Adjutant General to have the militia ready to get out quickly and stand off the police, and also confirms every one of the sensational statements made by Wharton. Golden when he took the witness stand during the examining trial of Caleb Powers.

After the murder, according to Culton, Taylor was apprehensive lest Yontsey should tell of the conspiracy, and spoke of furnishing him money to send him out of the State.

All the prisoners were denied bail except Culton, all save him refusing to submit any evidence in support of the motion.

A change of venue to Scott county was granted in all cases save that of Culton, who has not asked a change, but simply seeks bail. The cases will come up for trial July 6.

The prisoners will be kept at Georgetown.

In speaking of the Culton application for bail the dispatches from Frankfort reporting the proceedings of Friday say:

Wharton Golden's strange stories on the stand convinced few people, that he spoke the truth, and Culton held back as much as naturally he would if he had personal interests at stake. Three of the witnesses today furnished sensational testimony, stating that what both had said was true. These were Wade Watts, a negro helper at the State House, Private Williams, a member of the Frankfort State Guard, and McKenzie Todd, private secretary to Governor Taylor.

Watts told of Yontsey's conduct just after the shooting. Williams swore that the company at the arsenal were kept under arms and in uniform and awaiting orders for nearly an hour before the shooting of Goebel. Todd said that Yontsey stationed himself at the window from which it is alleged Goebel was afterward shot, three days before the assassination. Watt told of many alleged threats and preparations for trouble, which he said he overheard at the Capitol during the stay of the mountaineers. Several witnesses stated that they had observed Culton acting peculiarly immediately preceding the shooting.

Other PARDONS ISSUED.

The real sensation came, however, while Assistant Secretary of State Mathews was on the stand at 9:40 p. m. He said in addition to the pardons for Caleb Powers and Davis, which documents were captured at Lexington, that pardons were also issued by Gov. Taylor on March 10 for John Powers, Charles Finley, Harlan Whitaker and probably for Culton, although the witness was not positive on the last point. He said no pardons were issued so far as he knew for Yontsey, Berry Howard, James Howard and others.

Our Life Melody.

There is no music in a rest, but there is the making of music in it. In our whole life melody the music is broken off here and there by "rests," and we foolishly think we have come to the end of time. God sends a time of forced leisure, sickness, disappointment, frustrated efforts, and makes a sudden pause in the choral hymn of our lives, and we lament that our voices must be silent and our part missing in the music which ever goes up to the ear of the Creator. How does the musician read the rest? See him beat the time with unvarying count and catch up the next note true and steady, as if no breaking place had come in between. Not without design does God write the music of our lives. Be it ours to learn the time, and not be destroyed by the rests. They are not to be hurried over, not to be omitted, not to destroy the melody, not to change the key-note. If we look up God Himself will beat the time for us. With the eye on Him we shall strike the next note full and clear. If we say "silly to ourselves," "There is no music in a rest," let us not forget "there is the making of music in it." The making of music is often a slow and painful process in this life. How patiently God works to teach us! How long He waits for us to learn the lesson!—Ruskin.

DR. R. GOLDSTEIN.

May 5th,

"THE DRUMMER'S WIFE."

The following is response to toast "The Drummer's Wife" to have been delivered by W. R. Nunnally, of this city, at the annual U. C. T. Banquet held last Friday evening in Lynchburg, Va:

From time immemorial the influence of women has been regarded as one of the most potent powers in a civilized world. The happy and glorious freedom of the Christian world to-day is largely due to her untiring love for, and interest in, her Master's cause.

The marked elevated moral standard of this our loved land is but a tribute to the chastity of her character. The cause of education has been driven further and further into the mysteries of the unknown by the keenness of her intellect. The hallowed happiness of home has been made sacredly sweet, by her capacity to draw out the God-likeness in man. Yea, commerce itself has been purified, purified and perfected by the genial co-operation of woman.

But, my friends, as we stand in the twilight of the 19th century, I would arrest your attention and point you to one particular company of women, who are and must needs be the greatest factors for good in the future of our country; namely the Drummer's wife. In doing this I would not pluck one flowerlet from the brow of any true woman. Nay, I would rather place a wreath of roses upon every fair head. But I would bundle the grand sisterhood in one beautiful bouquet and show you why the drummer's wife is the flower most to be admired.

1st. Because she is a woman of privation and self-denial. Think of her as she spends the long and lonely hours of separation from the idol of her heart. Think of her as she misses many of the pleasures of life, because her inferior, one eighth, is not there to go with her. And then think of her when her anger gets to the boiling point with no husband present on whose head to turn the whole thing loose. I say, she is self-sacrificing.

2nd. As an educator she occupies a place paramount to all others. See her as she counsels with her husband over knotty problems, removing obstacles, he thought fixtured in his pathway. See her as she takes her boy and drills him in the great lessons of commerce, thus preparing him to become the head man of some great enterprise.

3rd. Religion and Morals feel the presence of her power; for she like her husband, is generous to a fault; she not only denies herself many things in her own life, but she humbles home that some charity or church duty may be met, but she murmurs not when her husband contributes largely to the building of every church and school house in his territory.

4th. As an economist she teaches, by example, lessons not to be forgotten for generations; for she is determined things shall not always be thus. She has an ideal day ahead; and woman like she never wavers one fraction in her determination to attain it.

Oh! You say, from this standpoint the drummer's wife is not so much to be admired as pitied; but look closely. The picture changes. The Silver behind the cloud is beginning to show itself. The Drummer and his wife by industry and application have come to possess a few hundred in dollars and millions in friends and experience.

Capital, ever on the alert, recognizes the opportunity; a partnership is formed; the drummer remains at home and his wife reigns as queen. Watch them as they go up and down the walks of life drawing into themselves the love of those around them. He reaping the result of the genial Nature he has cultivated and the harvest of good deeds sown. She with but few grey hairs and a face free from furrows, because furrows could not be made from the windows of a Soul filled with love, is the ideal woman.

Further let us reverently draw the curtain aside and take a peep into the Mysterious beyond. Me thinks I can see in the great Eternal City, with gates of Pearl, streets of gold, and thrones of transcendent beauty great throngs of people wearing Crowns filled with Jewels rare. Look! Do you not see some there, the Jewels in whose Crown are of rarest brilliancy—whose robes are purest in purity and whose countenances beam with perfect joy?

You ask who may these special ones be?

The answer comes ringing down through the clouds—THE WIVES OF DRUMMERS.

Finally my kind lady friends, candidates for matrimony, would you place yourselves in position, that as you walk through life, in its valleys you may inhale the fragrance of its flowers; or over its hills you may appreciate the beauty of its blossoms; then fling the lasso of love around the heart of some true "Knight of the grip," bind him to you with the cords of constancy and devotion.

Then in life's shadowy evening you will review its narrow span and gleefully exclaim:

Of the life that met mine when they murmured, I will.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Circus is entered in the $20,000 stake event for stallions to be trotted at Readville.

W. O. F. is a two-year-old out of Rilm's dam that trotted a quarter in 37 1/2 seconds on April 15.

A colt by Margrave 2:15 1/2, out of Cops Lee by Axtil, trotted at Terre Haute last week in $52,000 worth of stakes.

Thomas W. Lawson has taken an entry in the $20,000 stallion race at Readville. This probably means that he will buy one of the crackerjacks.

Red Cloud, the high stepper, sold last week to the Thos. W. Lawson, of Boston, for $10,000. He was bred by Jenn. Wilson, of Bethel, and was sired by King, Mr. Wilson's famous show horse. He is trotting bred, and it proves that trotters can step high, go fast and sell for big money.

The fast mare, Cut Glass 2:10 1/2, by Onward, dam Crystal by Cret under, that Glen Lake Farm sold to the Schlesingers, of Aurora, has proved quite a race mare and money winner at the Vienna spring meeting. March 25 she defeated Bonaparte, Carrie Shields, Lord Coffey and Lorena in a race of 2,800 yards for a purse of $582. On the 29th for a purse of $650 she beat Belle J. and Bonaparte, and on April 8 she again won, defeating Carrie Shields, B. B. M. and E. J. Brown. This was for a purse of $633.50.

Which Will You Take?

Last week the Bourbon News said emphatically that there was not a case of small pox in Paris, and the Kentuckian-Citizen admits that there is, and both papers made their statements on the authority of the same Dr. Bowen. We have not been there, but reports are unfavorable. We hope the disease will not become epidemic.

J. C. Kennedy, Raccoke, Tenn., says, "I cannot say too much for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. One box of it cured what the doctors called an incurable ulcer on my jaw." Cures piles and all skin diseases. Lookout for worthless imitations.

"THE KING FILTER!"

Patented January 2, 1900.

By far the most fruitful avenue for the elements of disease to enter the human economy is through the water we drink; and thousands upon thousands of our fellow-beings and untimely graves every year simply because of the grossest negligence and inexcusable ignorance, failing to attend to this all-important matter. The ordinary filters put up all over the land being nothing more or less than sieves of diatom and death, far worse than no filter at all, containing foul, stagnant, decomposing water, full of dirt of all kinds that accumulate on the rods of your house to be carried into your cisterns to be used for drinking purposes.

A Look

into one of these modern death-traps after it has stood unexamined for weeks, and often months, would surely nauseate the strongest and convince the most incredulous that they were far better off if they had no filter. The most casual comparison of the

with any other filter, would convince any reasonable person at once of its vast superiority, and show them that they could ally afford to purchase any other simply because it was cheap; for certainly the BEST is the cheapest where comfort, health and life are at stake. And though the price may seem at first sight a trifle high, when you remember that being an ANTI-FREEZER, you avoid the bursting of pipes and filters (which is the rule with all others on the market), and the necessary repairs. You will not fail to see at once that, besides being the only health-preserving filter made, it is also THE CHEAPEST FILTER MADE. Don't be deceived by the beautiful exterior of the filters offered you, or the cheap talk of the dealer when he says, "mine is much cheaper and about as good," but men and women of thought look into the filter and its merits, remembering the value of the health and lives of your loved ones. And ask yourselves, "can I afford to take the risk for the petty sum of a few dollars?"

Be sure not to purchase before you examine the "THE KING," manufactured by the King Filter Co.,
